Content of the Programme

Our programme is designed to replicate the teaching experience that students benefit from when they travel to one of our schools. Therefore, we needed to include all the academic elements composing a traditional language course, i.e. reading, writing, speaking, and listening, while making sure that we deliver 21st Century Skills through our online programme, which is an important part of our teaching methodology.

Consequently, we designed a course, which fosters mediation skills such as critical thinking, negotiation, digital literacy and communication skills in different environments. To reach this academic objective, we included a combination of:

1. Virtual live classes
2. Group work
3. Self-learning
4. Private tutoring

"Employers want workers who have communication skills, can work collaboratively in teams and know how to analyse problems by thinking critically."

World Bank, about 21st Century Skills

Virtual Live Classes

We collaborated with one of the best virtual classroom providers for education, which allows teachers the flexibility to do much more things than with other tools.

All students can work on the same document at the same time. Teachers can divide the class into smaller groups to collaboratively work on projects and exercises. Students can access all sort of material including videos, Power Points, quizzes, listening materials and websites.

This platform is powered by a Learning Management System (LMS), which allows teachers to share the course content generated from live sessions. The LMS also helps teachers track students' progress, devise study plans, and define their schedules accordingly. Students can access all this information for an ultimate learning experience.

Self-Learning on my.Eurocentres

Alongside the LMS, my.Eurocentres is the primary tool for self-study. Students have access to Eurocentres content generated over the years with the objective to be the best language school in the United Kingdom and France for academic teaching. This objective was achieved when Eurocentres was ranked #1 in the United Kingdom according to a research conducted by the El Gazette.

My.Eurocentres allows students to test their language skills as well as their 21st Century Skills (please request 21st Century Skills material for specific information). Eurocentres is unique in this respect by not only teaching but also measuring and rewarding 21st Century Skills, which is relevant in today's workplace.

My.Eurocentres is also the place where teachers will help students define their personal study plan and reorient their learning focus depending on their weaknesses. This allows students to make the most out of their time, because they concentrate on the right type of exercises.

Group Work

The online environment can often be perceived as a barrier to collaboration and interaction between learners. This is the reason why we added 5 group work sessions per week. Our objective is to maximise interaction between students. They practise specific exercises together, improve their spoken fluency skills, prepare for the next live sessions, and work on mediation skills based on exercises given to them. Their teacher has the option to join the live group work session to guide students, should they decide to.

Private Tutoring

Every two weeks, students have the possibility to request a short private tutorial with their teacher. Tutorials are designed to accompany students in their learning journey notably by providing support and guidance.

“Individual tutorials are a great opportunity to improve your language level by receiving specific, tailored materials and study suggestions. By focusing your time directly on your own personal language needs, you will progress much more quickly.”

David Leverick, Eurocentres DELTA+ Teacher

Depending on the need of each student, private online courses can be added to the programme. It can help students understand specific areas of improvement they have identified with their tutor.
